KIWANIS HAVE
CHRISTMAS PLAN
FOR POOR HERE

Abe Effron Starts Fund With $50—
T. R. Hill Speaks Today on Western Trip, Giving Details on National Parks Visited

CLUB WILL ENTERTAIN
TEACHERS MONDAY NIGHT

The regular Kiwanis Club meeting next week will be held on Monday night instead of the regular time, Thursday noon, which conflicts with Thanksgiving dinner, it was decided at the luncheon today.

At this time, Monday night, the teachers in the Middlesboro public schools will be guests of the club. The principal speakers will be A. P. Ballou of Louisville, district governor elect for the Kentucky-Tennessee District Kiwanians.

A letter to the club from Abe Effron was read in which he enclosed fifty dollars as a nest egg for a fund for Christmas tree and Christmas baskets for the poor people of Middlesboro. President Diebig appointed a committee to work up the matter for the Kiwanis Club, composed of the following men: P. M. Parsons, chairman; H. E. Verran, Guy Glorier, G. H. Talbot and C. O. Brown.

J. W. Wilson was chairman of the meeting today. Dr. U. G. Brummett drew the attendance prize. The silent booths were sacks of assorted drug goods, given by Lee's. The chief speaker was T. R. Hill.

Mr. Hill gave a very interesting talk on his trip to California and back, emphasizing in particular the national parks which he visited with a view to helping out the Cumberland Gap park project, and telling in his inimitable way the high points of the trip. In beginning he described minutely a trip through the road from LaFollette to Jellico over the Dixie Highway when he first started. The description largely amused the club because of the attack by these towns on the condition of the road through this way.

The speaker described many of the towns visited, Seattle, which he said was the best city in the west. Los Angeles, with its great surplus of cars, Colorado Springs and its healthful atmosphere, San Francisco, and a number of others. He mentioned in particular the hundreds of miles of perfect concrete roads and the remarkable condition of the western schools. Mr. Hill visited a number of Kiwanis Clubs on his trip and he told of their interesting meetings, particularly of those in Seattle, Los Angeles and Kansas City.

He spoke at length of the wonders of Yellowstone Park, but he declared that none of the six or seven national parks he visited were superior, in particular, to the location here and he said that he felt confident that it was within our reach if we would work for it hard enough. He gave three requirements for national parks which he said were outlined to him by the man in charge of Yellowstone Park. First, he said, there must be a place with natural and historical features worthy of such distinction; second, the surrounding sections must support the project to the limit; and third, the government must be made to see the significance of this location.

At the close of the meeting, Supt. J. W. Headner announced the football game here Friday with the L. M. U. Reserves and the one in LaFollette Saturday between M. H. S. second team and LaFollette, there. He said that the Thanksgiving game would be decided on definitely today or tomorrow and announcement would be made immediately.

MERCHANTS ASSOCIATION SEEK TO CREATE MORE INTERESTS

Although no definite date for a meeting of the Merchants' Association has been set and other plans are not completed, committees are working on the proposition and will be able to complete the final arrangements, according to S. M. Reams, president of the organization.

Bulletins are being sent out today to members of the association which, written in a humorous vein, are calculated to create interest in the organization. "Some Ways to Kill an Association" is the title of the bulletin which is an excerpt of American Trade Association.

According to the present plans, the next meeting of the association will be a banquet and there will be a speaker who will emphasize the importance of advertising.

COURT CONTINUES
TO METE JUSTICE

Baker and Marsee Fined $5000, Given
6 Months for Having Still, Buster Roberts Sentenced

Sherman Baker and George Marsee, charged with possessing an illicit still, were each fined $5000 and sentenced to six months in jail in circuit court. Mostly misdemeanor cases have been reached on the docket thus far.

"Buster" Roberts, tried on several charges among which were transporting liquor and flourishing weapons, was given fines aggregating $650 and received jail sentences amounting to 200 days.

Other cases tried since noon yesterday and verdicts rendered are: Bailey Winder, carrying weapons, $100 and thirty days; Bailey Winder, possessing still, $500 and six months; Tim Ball, not guilty; W. A. Phillips, contempt, $10; Gillis Johnson, assault and battery, thirty days.

Trial of Mauds Elnaure, charged with maliciously shooting at Tom Irie on Nineteenth street several months ago, was in progress at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Much confusion has been in the court room during the present term; people talk aloud and walk around while trials are in progress. This was somewhat decreased this afternoon when Judge J. G. Pefferster threatened to fine those causing the disturbance and to fine the sheriff if he failed to enforce quietude.

NEW TELEPHONE CABLE
LINE NEAR COMPLETION

Work on the new cable for the Cumberland Telephone company here is practically completed, only the splicing and rearrangement of wires remaining to be done.

The cable, consisting of 300 wires, goes from the telephone building to Twentieth street, where it proceeds down the alley. Two hundred wires extend to the railroad, 100 from there to Tenth street and fifty from Tenth street to Giles street.

The new type of cable which is larger than the old contains twice the number of wires. The work will make it possible to have a larger number of telephones in the East End and will provide adequate service for additional patrons.

Two crews have been working on the cables and have made more rapid progress than was expected, considering the magnitude of the work. Connecting the new cables with the present cables and the proper arrangement of wires will be done as soon as possible.

MRS. ARNOLD TO LIBRARY
ASSOCIATION AT COVINGTON

Mrs. T. D. Arnold, librarian of the Carnegie library, will leave tomorrow night for Covington to attend the annual convention of the Kentucky Library Association which will be held there Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. Arnold says there is a possibility of bringing the convention to Middlesboro next year as it has never met in this section. At any rate, she will make efforts to have the 1924 meeting take place here.

CLEAR CREEK MOUNTAIN SPRINGS
AUCTION TOMORROW BIDS
FAIR TO BE BOOMING SUCCESS

The Clear Creek Mountain Springs sale of lots Thursday bids fair to be a booming success. The people in the surrounding sections are awaking to the fact that the proposition is unique.

The money put into lots goes into development. Only three hundred and sixty-four lots are available at this time. From every indication there will be a rush for them. Some of the surrounding towns are planning to take blocks. Jellico and Harlan have indicated that they want a block each. Harlan has asked for a block of twenty. Other towns are catching the idea. Inquiries have come in from different sections of the state. A delegation is coming from Louisville. Inquiries have come from as far away as Pennsylvania.

H. B. Cassin, chief engineer for the Louisville Real Estate and Development Co., who has been plotting, surveying and developing the property in preparation for the Thursday sale, finished Monday. Before returning to Louisville he was heard to say: "I have been with the Louisville Real Estate and Development Co. for fifteen years. I have never known them to fail. They are untiring in their efforts to succeed. I have seen many a sale succeed with much less enthusiasm back of it than this proposition. You have a wonderful prospect for a great sale and a great encampment."

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cannitz have gone from Norton, Va., to all towns between there and Jellico, Tenn., talking up the proposition and they are enthusiastic over the prospects. Ben Temple and his brother, from Danville, Va., have been in Pineville for more than a week getting everything ready for the barbecue and all preliminaries fixed up. D. C. Clark, President of the Development Co., will be in Pineville with one of the best auctioneers in the land in time to survey the property and become familiar with every detail. Wednesday an airplane is to start from Harlan with fifteen thousand booklets advertising the sale, which will be dropped on fifteen or twenty mountain towns. The Kiwanis Club of Middlesboro is to take people to Pineville for the sale.

The stores of Pineville will close in the forenoon. The town is already electric with the spirit of expectancy. It is well they should be. Middlesboro and Pineville cannot afford to let the lots go too low. Many of the original purchasers realize that lots now are worth much more than when they got in on the initial proposition, and some are saying they will be willing to purchase at a higher price and cash in their original lots at the original price, if it takes this to make it go better. This is good business.

As Mr. Kelley, president of the Board of Control said in his Banger last week: "How much the encampment shall amount to in the future will depend upon how much our mountain people determine to make the lots bring. Cheap lots mean little development; a good price for the lots mean a great development." He also suggested that business men are seeing that to invest in a lot now will make the initial effort a success, whether said business men want to build on the lot, or whether they want to live on it or not. After the encampment gets going (Already a great program is under way for next summer) lots and estates will be in demand from a far and there will always be a market, just as lots are in constant demand at Winona and Chautauque New York. The cheapest lot listed at Chautauque is five hundred dollars while the highest is twelve hundred. Clear Creek encampment, when we get our lakes, will surpass either of the above named places both in beauty, elevation and in invigoration.

The encampment will serve as a uni-

WHY HERSHEY GAVE HIS $60,000,000
TO BETTER THE LOT OF ORPHAN BOYS

HERSHEY, Pa., Nov. 21.—I was a poor boy myself, once.

Seven short, simple words, but they tell the story of millions given away as other men give dimes.

For Milton Snavely Hershey has turned over $60,000,000, practically the whole of a fortune built up by a lifetime of labor, to found a school for orphan boys.

I found Hershey in his home located in this little village hidden away in the hills of central Pennsylvania. The village that he has built from the bare fields of a farming community, a village that has no town form of government and where Mr. Hershey's word is law. His workers' homes are built on land donated by Hershey and the houses erected by payments from their salaries. The streets are paved and clean, a village that might well deserve the name of "Spotless Town."

"Why have you given away such a fortune?" I asked him.

His answer was the seven words that head this story.

Continuing he said, "My country has been good to me. I feel that what I have is but a trust."

"And I know no better way to repay that trust, than to give to America young men, healthy and strong, educated in the fundamentals, and who look upon work as an honor, and not something to be avoided."

"It is time that more attention was paid to humanity, and less to machinery; to polishing up men and not brass."

Work Brings Happiness

"No man can find real happiness except in work; no nation can endure unless her people are honest workers."

He took me to the school that he has founded, where 120 orphan boys, ranging in age from 4 to 18, are being cared for.

The school is located on a farm about a mile from Hershey. Its main building is the farmhouse where Hershey was born.

"My father owned this farm," Mr. Hershey said, "and my grandfather the next one, and my great-grandfather the one beyond that. But they were lost, and I had to buy them back."

We went through the dormitory, a large brick building, occupied by the older boys. The ground floor holds the school rooms, the basement the gymnasium, the upper floors being the sleeping quarters.

A nice enough room, isn't it?" said Mr. Hershey as he showed one of the rooms, with its two snow-white beds, "but just a little warm. When I was a kid and slept in that attic over there, I had to break the ice in the pitcher in order to wash in the morning."

"The barn used to be where this building is now. I'd driven the cows in, morning and night, dressed in an old pair of overalls, and with my bare feet tingling to the feel of the grass."

"I had to walk a mile and a half to school in the winter. I worked on the farm in the summer. But I was healthy. I had plenty to eat. Look at these boys here. Do they look much like the youngsters you see in the city?"

All Dressed Differently

The boys had surrounded Mr. Hershey. They greeted him as one of themselves. Every boy was dressed differently. No uniformed sameness at the Hershey school.

"I am not trying to make supermen out of these boys. Just to make good Americans of them. To give them the chance that fate has denied them."

"They stay here until they are 18. Then they go to work in the candy factory, or we will help them get a job where they want it."

"If a boy shows any exceptional talent that would need a college education to develop it, we will aid him in that. But a college education is not needed in every walk of life."

Hershey is 66 years old, descended from a Swiss family that settled in Lancaster County, Pa., 250 years ago. At 17, filled with ambition to make a printer's devil in Gap, Pa. He worked for six months without salary, just for his keep.

The life did not appeal. With the crude facilities of the printing press in the early seventies, the paper looked as if microbes had crawled over it," according to Hershey.

He then went to Lancaster, Pa., where he spent three years in learning candy making.

In 1870, with the little money he had managed to save, he went to Philadelphia where he went into business for himself. The collision of his

Getting Bolder

Bandits, hold-up men, and their friends are becoming bolder in New York. They're getting so gosh-blamed bold that Police Commissioner Enright has taken cognition of a cruise wave and curtailed vacation and off-day privileges of patrolmen and detectives. This photo shows one of the very boldest and most successful attempts of bandits. They smashed the big plate glass show window of Hickson's, one of Fifth Avenue's most fashionable shops, and stole furs and gowns valued at many thousands of dollars—and escaped.

DOUBLE TRACK IS NEAR COMPLETION

Only Small Strip in Question Between Wall's End and Baileys—at Work on K. and V. Line

The whole portion of the L. and N. double track between Wall's End and Baileys is under construction now, with the single exception of a strip between Barboursville and Artois on which the right of way has been held up and has not yet been settled. The workmen are getting along very well on this stretch and expect to have it completed by the first of the year if the right of way matter is settled.

The L. and N. expects to have six and a half miles of the K. and V. line double track ready by the first of February. One big steam shovel is at work on this line now and two more with equipment will be added next month.

The L. and N. already has enough double track in operation to handle the traffic it now has quite well. The completed double track will care adequately to any emergencies.

The following firms have agreed to close all day: H. E. Verran company, C. H. Talbot, Lee Drug store, Shillbaine's, Smith drug store, Reams Hardware company and the Wise Specialty Shop.

The following firms will be closed during Thursday afternoon: Sterchi Bros. and Tennant, W. J. Collison company, Frazer and Overton, T. H. Campbell company, A. D. Campbell store, Brown Bros., E. L. Camp and Easter Bros.

Some merchants have not yet expressed their decision on the matter. Any others who decide to close all or part of the day are requested to notify the Daily News so that the information may be made public.

"MISS TENNESSEE" WILL WAIT
TILL EAST END IS DONE

"Miss Tennessee," the Kinsler line bus that was intended to run from Middlesboro to Knoxville, is not running to Knoxville on account of the almost impassable condition of the East End detour. A few trips were made to Knoxville but these were abandoned when the detour became muddy. The bus will begin daily operation between the two cities when the construction work on East Cumberland avenue is completed, which they say, will be about three weeks. The bus is at present running on the Middlesboro-Barbourville line.

SIOUX FALLS, Nov. 21.—Claiming better than two to one victory in county proposal conventions over sponsors for the state-wide presidential campaign in behalf of Henry Ford, supporters of William McAdoo today began work on a platform which they hope may be carried into the national arena by their candidate. Returns from counties representing approximately three-fourths of state voting power gave McAdoo forces thirty thousand voters in the state convention against less than ten thousand for Ford men, according to leaders in the two campaigns.

Republican and farmer-labor sentiment was less clearly indicated by county proposal nominations to the state convention at Pierre, December 3, but in both battle lines are drawn. Those in the Republican camp between President Coolidge and Senator Hiram Johnson, and in the third party between Henry Ford and Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin.

WOMEN WITNESSES IN NICK
LAUKOMUS CASE ABSENT

Cases against Nick Laukomus, formerly proprietor of the Liberty Cafe, cannot be tried at this term of court because of the absence of several women witnesses. Among the charges against him are detaining women and running a disorderly house. The women, it was said, are in Virginia.

It developed in circuit court when the case came up for trial that Judge Sam Hurst, who presided at the special term of court at Pineville recently, had ordered the release of the prisoner witnesses from the Pineville jail, ruling that they could not be held. They were being held there under medical quarantine.

STREETS IN BUSINESS SEC-TION CLEANED THIS WEEK

The city streets in the business section are being cleaned this week by the city prisoners under the direction of V. M. Spears, city jailer.

Chief H. E. Ball recently announced his intention of having the streets kept cleaned by the prisoners or otherwise, if necessary, until the new street cleaning equipment arrives.

A crew of men this morning began draining on Cumberland avenue under the bridge where the water from a broken main has collected. It has been standing in ponds along the street and sidewalk there.

AT THE DOOR

(Eugene Field)
I thought myself indeed secure,
So fast the door, so firm the lock;
But, lo! he toddling comes to live
My parent ear with timorous knock.
My heart were stone could it withstand
The sweetness of my baby's plea—
That timorous, baby knocking and
"Please let me in—it's only me!"

I threw aside the unfinished book,
Regardless of its tempting charm;
And opening wide the door, I took
My laughing darling in my arms.

Who knows but in Eternity,
I, like a truant child, shall want
The glories of a life to be,
Beyond the Heavenly Father's gate?

And will that Heavenly Father heed
The truant's supplicating cry,
As at the outer door I plead,
"Tis I, O Father! Only I!"

TINY COOKIES

There are times when nearly every woman wants "just something" to serve to a large group of women in the afternoon. The hostess without a maid may find even a cup of tea too much of an undertaking for a large number of guests and will prefer something that can be prepared and placed on plates ready to serve before the meeting begins.

Home-made candy is always appreciated but this involves hours of tedious as well as hard work, so why not serve one of the following delectable sweetmeats? These are about two bites more than candy but are quite rich and sweet enough to serve as a confection without tea.

This rule for "Hard Tack" will serve about thirty persons.

Hard Tack

Two eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup flour, 1 cup dates, 1 cup walnut meats, 1 teaspoon soda, 1-2 teaspoon salt.
Beat eggs until light with a Dover beater. Beat in sugar. Sift soda with flour and salt. Beat into first mixture. Add dates stoned and cut in small pieces, and nuts, chopped or cut in small pieces. Mix well and spread very thinly on the bottom of a well oiled and floured dripping pan or cookie sheet. Bake twelve minutes in a hot oven. Remove from oven, cut in long narrow bars and let cool on the molding board.

Cocanut Macaroons

Two eggs (whites), 2-4 cup shredded cocconut, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1 teaspoon vanilla.
Beat whites of eggs until stiff and dry. Beat in sugar. Put in top of double boiler over hot water. When lukewarm add cocconut, cornstarch and vanilla. Mix well and drop from a small spoon onto sheets of oiled paper. Bake in a slow oven until tops are lightly browned.

MODERN BORGIA?

Now that Mrs. Eliza Patigian, shown here, has confessed, according to Fresno, Calif., authorities, to murdering her stepdaughter recently by placing poison in her food, police have started an investigation into the mysterious death of her husband last June. Mrs. Patigian is said to have told police she strewed ashes on her bathroom floor and prayed for 40 nights, at the end of which time she received "divine authority" for her crime.

YOUR QUESTION AND ITS ANSWER

QUESTION—"Will you please tell me whether results from Chiropractic Adjustments are permanent?"

ANSWER—Results will be permanent if the small movable bones of the spine have been completely restored to normal position, and the spinal muscles and ligaments have regained their normal contractile power to hold the bones in place. When your Chiropractor has accomplished these essential changes in your spine, results will be absolutely permanent unless some accident or shock produces a new impingement, an event which may happen at any time but may never happen again. Since you cannot foresee what the future holds in this respect, it is your duty to yourself to get your present condition corrected, and not borrow from future troubles which may never come.

News From Pineville

PINEVILLE SECONDS TRIM BARBOURVILLE

Youngsters Take Game Away From Opponents To The Tune of 92 to 0.

PINEVILLE, Nov. 21.—Pineville High's second team trimmed Barbourville in a runaway Friday, to a beautiful little song entitled "92 to 0". Barbourville was absolutely incapable of stopping the youngsters. At the start of the game two or three of the first team men were used, but as soon as Coach Jones saw the weakness of Barbourville, he replaced them with second stringers. The Barbourville boys can be complimented on their fight, but as to playing ability they were not there. They seemed to lose themselves in the fracas. Numerous fumbles and juggling caused the game to approach a near farce on the Barbourville side. Pineville's youngsters, the future wearers of her colors, showed their ability as handlers of the pigskin in all phases of the game, especially in defense work, interference and the blocking of aerial attacks. According to information a lineup of town men will meet the Pineville High team at Purcell field next Friday. This indicates a good series here, at least.

PINEVILLE LOCALS

Miss Bessie Corn returned to her home in London Sunday after an extended visit with her brother and family, W. L. Corn.

W. S. Hopkins of this city is very ill with an attack of grippe. Mr. Hopkins was a witness at the Hall-Colson trial in London, but obtained special leave to return home on account of illness.

B. Y. P. C. Social Very Enjoyable

Pineville, Ky., Nov. 17.—The Monthly Social of the B. Y. P. C., of the First Baptist church was a splendid example of the interest that is being displayed in the affairs of the church as well as their own organization.

The Social was held at the First Baptist church last Friday beginning at 7:30 p. m.

A general get-together meeting was held before the banquet and everyone seemed so enthused and lively that it consumed practically two hours. Numbers of new games were played, among them a new version of Blind Man's Buff wherein the Blind Man uses a stick, designates a member who must act as he states, as a dog of the sound he makes. Should the Blind Man guess the party who makes the noise, he or she in turn must take his place. Another interesting game was the "Cracker Relay Race." Teams were chosen and each member of the team was given two crackers. The team whose members ate both crackers first and whistled were awarded the prize. Mrs. L. C. Kelly headed the winning team which was awarded another box of crackers. Numerous other games were played. At 9:15 the party filed into the banquet hall.

Long flowing streamers were strung from the center of the ceiling to every corner of the room. The prevailing colors were purple and gold directly down the center of the table were laid two streamers, purple and gold twined about each other.

The privacy of the banquet was insured by large screens of the ever present color placed in front of the glass doors. On these were placed Rosettes, which added to their beauty. Across the banquet hall a great piano was hung with these words came blazoned on it. "Are you helping someone? Christians always do so." This will be the subject under discussion during the meeting next Sunday evening. Little baskets of purple and gold filled with white, red and purple candy were placed at each plate.

The president of the organization, A. C. Strunk, acting as extemporaneous master of the occasion, gave a pleasing talk on the work of the B. Y. P. C. and of the appreciation of the company as a whole to the Social Decorating Committee, who had so adequately prepared for the occasion. Miss Mattie Crooner is the chairman. Miss Lue Cook and Miss Mabel Bishop.

He also spoke of the meaning of the occasion, first to have a good time and second to "bring the union to closer bond and fellowship." Other speakers of the occasion were: T. R. Ware, chairman of the board of Deacons, who pledged the support of the Board in all the undertakings of the B. Y. P. C.; M. H. Cox, and Mrs. L. C. Kelley. All the members were called on to speak and all were wonderfully pleased with the success of the banquet and expressed a desire that they might be able to attend many more.

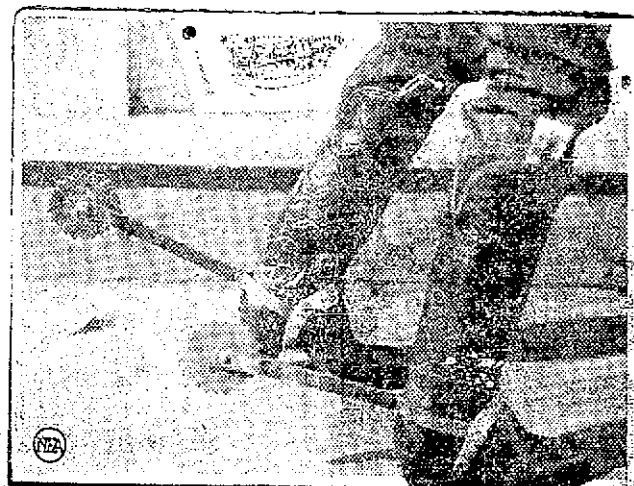

The assembly was dismissed with prayer by T. R. Ware.

CARE OF CHILD'S TEMPORARY TEETH

Should Be Cleaned Daily and Taken to Dentist for Regular Examination

November 20.—After the coming of the first teeth, until the child is two years old, the mother should clean the teeth daily with absorbent cotton wrapped around her finger, using a bottle of boiled water. Between the ages of two and three years, the child should be given a small toothbrush and taught to wash his own teeth. It should be made to understand that it is just as necessary as washing his hands. From the age of three, the child should go to the dentist regularly for an examination, as the supervision of the dentist will go far toward preventing decay and cavities will be discovered before much harm has been done, thus making the treatment less painful and preventing the child from developing a fear of the dentist. Many parents think that temporary teeth do not need to be filled—they will come out anyway, so what is the use of all that trouble and expense? The preservation of the temporary teeth is of the utmost importance, as they are needed to the very moment the permanent teeth are ready to take their place. About the sixth to the eighth year the first teeth become loosened as their roots are absorbed in preparation for the coming thru of the second teeth. Too early removal causes the remaining teeth to fill in the space left, thus interfering with the eruption of the permanent teeth and creating a tendency toward irregularity. Too early loss means imperfect chewing, poor digestion, contamination of food from decayed teeth, frequent toothache and loss of sleep at night, which may lead to a permanent nervous condition. Neglected, decayed teeth, even in early childhood, often cause abscesses in the jaws, infected tonsils and many other diseases.

FULLBACK WYCOFF

An outstanding fullback in the south this year is Wycoff of the Georgia Tech squad, a first-year player and a brilliant star. Wycoff starred for the southerners against Notre Dame, making his team's only score. Notre Dame players and coaches say Wycoff is the best back who has rammed the Irish line all season.

WAITED TILL THE COWS CAME HOME

"I am indeed glad to write you this letter. I was a terrible sufferer from cases in the stomach and colic attacks. The specialist, our family doctor sent me to in Philadelphia, gave me no relief, although I took his medicine till the cows came home. He finally said I would have to be operated. Luckily I heard of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy then, and although it is now three years since I took a course of it, I have never had a symptom of my old trouble since. It is a simple harmless preparation that removes the starchy mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At Lee's and druggists everywhere."

CHANGE OF LIFE

Florida Lady Was in a Miserable Condition, But Says She Found Cardui Helpful, and Got Well.

Altha, Fla.—In explaining how she found Cardui so helpful during change of life, Mrs. Ella M. Bailey, of Route 2, this place, said:

"I became so weakened it was an effort for me to get around. I knew what was the matter, but I felt I couldn't give up."

"I just dragged, and I certainly was nervous. I was so restless I could not sit down long—yet so weak I couldn't get about. It is a most miserable and such a helpless feeling."

"I began to feel, after awhile, there was no use trying to get well. This is all wrong, for it makes a person worse."

"I had heard of Cardui, and thought it might strengthen me. A neighbor had used it with good results."

"I took a bottle of (Cardui), then I saw I wasn't so nervous, so I kept it up."

"Gradually the nervousness left me. I began to eat and sleep better. Was soon well, and all right. Cardui did wonders for me, and I certainly do recommend it."

Thousands of other women have written, to tell of the beneficial results obtained by taking Cardui, and to recommend it to others.

Accommodation

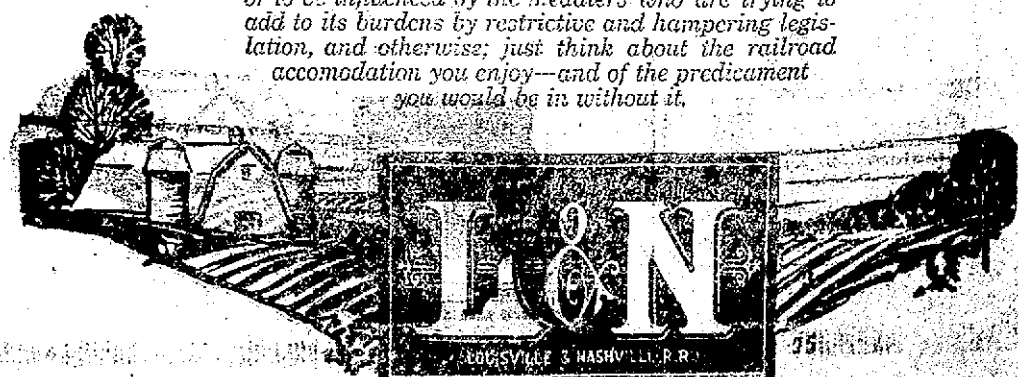

Did you ever stop to think of the accommodation you get from the railroad? Did you ever compare your situation with that of your father or grandfather who lived when or where there was no railroad nearby? Just to remind you, here are a few of the ways in which the railroad accommodates you:

The "Accommodation Train"—which comes along every day; stops at all the little stations; takes you anywhere up or down the road, in a short time, at little expense (even takes the children to school and back); brings your mail daily, and keeps you in constant touch with the outside world.

And the railroad takes to market the things you have to sell, delivers to you the things you can't get at home, and makes it possible for you to do lots of things and have lots of pleasures and comforts which you couldn't do and have without the railroad.

Along the lines of the L. & N. Railroad—entering thirteen states and operating five thousand miles of tracks—there are now thousands of people where there were only hundreds before the railroad came along. A great majority of these people appreciate what the L. & N. does for them in the way of accommodation and the important part it plays in their daily lives. But there are some few people who don't like this—the scheming politicians and chronic complainers—and even a few honest and sincere folk who don't stop to think; and who, therefore, don't realize that whatever hurts the railroad hurts the people as well.

If you find yourself inclined to criticize the railroad, or to be influenced by the meddlers who are trying to add to its burdens by restrictive and hampering legislation, and otherwise; just think about the railroad accommodation you enjoy—and of the predicament you would be in without it.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

The march of Southern industry

The South is still the world's cotton producer, but as a result of the development of the vast natural resources of this rich territory in the past few years the prosperity of the South no longer depends on a single product of the soil.

Agriculture has been greatly diversified, live stock husbandry has increased, cotton manufacturing has gone ahead with giant strides, and the uncovering of great mineral deposits has supplied the raw materials for many new industries.

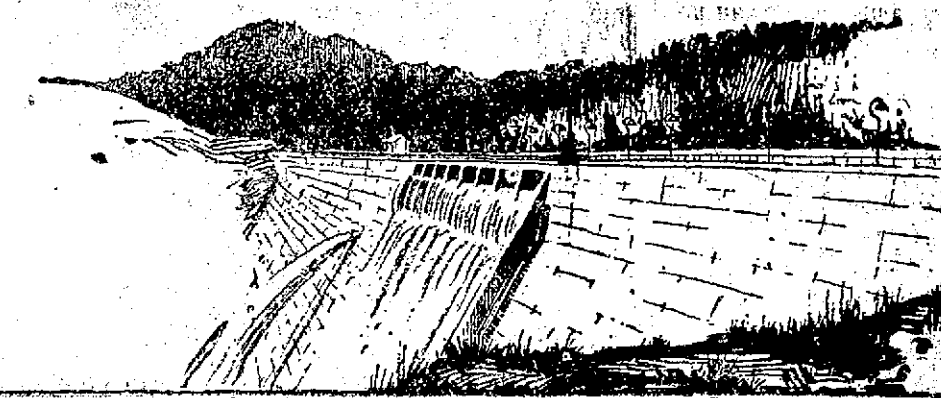

The growth of the Southern Railway System has kept pace with the march of industry. We have double-tracked more than a thousand miles of main lines and installed automatic electric block signals; increased the weight of rails, the tractive power of locomotives and the carrying capacity of cars; and increased yard and side tracks to 40% of the road mileage—a development that has called for the investment of $285,000,000 in twenty years.

Originally built to serve an agricultural South, the lines of the Southern Railway System today are hauling an ever-increasing tonnage of raw materials and manufactured products of the industrial South. Agriculture is still the foundation of our Southern prosperity, but a greater South is being built out of the rich stores of underground resources that Nature has been holding in reserve for us.

Southern Railway System deposits in Southern banks an average of $150,500 each banking hour.

OPEN PART OF NEW EAST END SATURDAY NOON

Street Finished to Bridge—Entire Avenue Will Be Opened Up Within Two Weeks, State Engineer Says Today

FITZPATRICK AVENUE IS CLOSED UP THIS MORNING

East Cumberland Avenue has been completed to the bridge and will be opened to traffic Saturday noon, according to announcement this morning by State Engineer, Cline. This will cut off the bad part of the east end detour and provide a good route all the way. Mr. Cline said further that the entire street would be completed and opened up in two weeks if the good weather continues. All horse traffic is asked to stay off the new street until the asphalt has lain several days.

Fitzpatrick Avenue from Cumberland Avenue to the canal, was closed up today and the construction men started work on it. All travel now must go down Ashbury Avenue and back of the ball park to get back to the avenue. Fitzpatrick Avenue will take about three or four weeks to complete. Work in every line, every place, is being pushed, however, to finish all the work up before the real winter weather sets in.

Every one is immensely pleased with the East End work, and nothing but praises is heard for it from all sides. The property owners and some of the Middlesboro citizens who protested the way the most at first are now praising it the most. N. Backner and C. O'Connor, the road men from Asheville who have been here the last few weeks pronounced the East End stretch a particularly fine piece of work.

Although East Cumberland Avenue will be opened for travel in about two weeks, the bridge will not be finished for some time afterwards. However, the engineers have given assurance that a proper opening will be made for travel.

THREE FOOTBALL GAMES THIS WEEK

L. M. U. Here Tomorrow, M. H. S. Seconds at LaFollette Saturday.
—Colonel Game Here

With three football games by local teams tomorrow and Saturday, the season is being brought to an interesting climax. The M. H. S. first team will play the L. M. U. Reserves at the East End ball park at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon. The M. H. S. second team will go to LaFollette and play their first team Saturday afternoon and the local colored high school team will play the Knoxville colored team on the local field Saturday afternoon.

The M. H. S. first team has not lost a game of the season but in going against the L. M. U. Reserves the boys realize that it will be an ordeal that will test their endurance and skill. This will be the last game of the season by the M. H. S. team at the local park and a large crowd is expected. Reports from Harrogate indicate there will be large crowds of students here for the game and all Middlesboro football fans are of course expected to be out.

The M. H. S. second team has had a great deal of practice this season, having participated in a number of games when the opposing team was no match for the B. H. S. first team. The game with LaFollette is expected to be one of interest, the teams being evenly matched.

Though the Middlesboro colored high school team has met and defeated the Knoxville colored team on their ground, the latter team is a strong one and the match Saturday is certain to be of interest.

TO FINISH SURVEY ON BOSWORTH TRAIL

County Court Appropriates $5000 for Work—Hope to Make This State Aid Road

The $5000 appropriated from the Bell County bond issue fund will be used for finishing the survey on the Bosworth Trail from the Bell-Leslie county line to Pineville. It was said by one of the magistrates of the county court here today. The money is from the appropriation for the Strath Creek and Bell Road.

This survey started at Richmond some months ago and has continued through Leslie County, up Goose Creek and down Asher's Fork to the county line. The survey on through Bell County to Pineville will finish their part of the work.

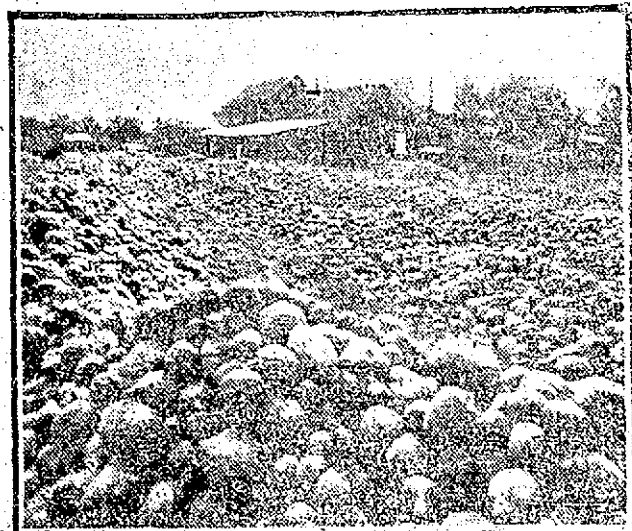

Then this route stands a very good chance of being made a state highway. Bell County has already appropriated $90,000 for use on the road. Several other counties have done the same thing and when this is matched with state aid funds the road may be assured.

CRIPPLED MAN HELD IN DEATH 1-EYED FARMER

Tenured by Hides Left in Ground by Cretches—Dead Man Witness Against Other in Affray Two Years Ago

SHOT GUN USED IN MURDER NEAR SHEPHERDSVILLE

By Associated Press.
SHEPHERDSVILLE, Nov. 22.—Jesse Peacock, 25, farmer, was arrested today charged with the murder of Dallas Foster, 50, neighboring farmer, whose body was found at midnight by a searcher. Peacock was taken to Louisville for safe keeping. Foster was a witness against Peacock in a shooting affray two years ago.

Peacock's arrest was due to an unusual chain of circumstances. He has but one leg, Foster but one eye. The farmer apparently knew this and fired from Foster's "blind side." Authorities were momentarily at a loss for a clue, but finally noticed holes in the earth as if made by a crutch. These holes led to Peacock's home. Foster was killed within four hundred yards of his home. A shotgun was used.

NO CAR SHORTAGE IN TWO MONTHS

Coal Business Rather Slow Except in Corporation Mines and Those With Railroad Contracts

The L. and N. has had a full car supply for the coal mines of the Cumberland Valley Division for the past two months and is hauling more coal all of the time now than it did a year ago. This, however, is probably because the car shortage which existed all last fall, because the coal business is quite slow all over the division. However, the railroad averages about 3000 cars hauled a week, or six days. This division has the advantage over most other railway lines at this time, and that is the fact so many of the mines in this section supply their own manufacturing companies and do not have to depend upon the open market for sale of their coal. This includes the Federal Supply Co. at Lynch, Wisconsin Steel Co. at Benham, Coper's company at Coxton, Detroit Gas Co. Commonwealth Light Co., and various others.

Several mines in this immediate vicinity, too, have railroad contracts and are able to run regularly because of this.

LAUDS GOOD ROAD WORK DONE HERE

Organizer Asks Pineville and Middlesboro Kiwanis Clubs to Act in State Association

The following letter, received here by the Kiwanis Club from Frank Dunn, Kentucky Good Roads Association organizer, is pleasing to Middlesboro readers:

Middlesboro Kiwanis Club:
The Kentucky Good Roads Association, as you will note from the enclosed folder, has district chairmen appointed in most of the territory in the eastern division of the association, but has not district chairman for the fourth district—consisting of Bell, Harlan, Whitley, Knox and Clay counties.

I have been requested by Judge G. W. Courley, chairman of the eastern division, to write you and ask that your club and the Kiwanis club of Pineville jointly name a man as chairman of the fourth district. Your club and the other Kiwanis clubs throughout the eastern half of the state, have taken a prominent part in fostering good roads work and are in a position to secure a good man to head the movement in your district.

The splendid work which you did recently in organizing the counties along the Cumberland Gap outlet, to Asheville and Florida has attracted state-wide interest and deserves special commendation, and Lexington is today inviting the Asheville officials who are now with you to come here when they are through down there and direct a movement to put through the same kind of an arrangement from London to Cincinnati, so your work is bearing fruit rapidly.

Please endeavor to make the selection of your district chairman as soon as possible this week, as we are preparing to launch our organization work at once. Thanking you, I am,

Very truly yours,

C. Frank Dunn,

Director of Organization Eastern Division.

MILLION RED CROSS SEALS TO KENTUCKY

State Board of Health Announces Sale Begins December 1, Lasts Through Christmas

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 21.—With the announcement today by the State Board of Health that the tuberculosis Christmas seals will be put on sale throughout the state December 1, the Louisville Welfare League stated that 1,000,000 seals will be distributed by that organization. Due to the fact the local tuberculosis association is a member of the Welfare League, these persons who desire to purchase seals in Louisville must notify the State Board of Health.

The seals will be sold by the local health units in each community in Kentucky. Funds from the sale of seals last year have maintained nurses in forty-two Kentucky counties and assisted the fight against tuberculosis in the counties where full time nurses are not employed.

Approximately $20,000 a year is raised through this method in Kentucky and it is estimated that 2,000 lives each year are saved. More than 150,000 persons were examined for tuberculosis and among the great number of these found to have the disease or tendencies toward it, educational work was started in an effort to stamp out all traces from their bodies.

The seals cost 1 cent each and are attractive on Christmas packages or on the back of letters. They are of red and green showing a little child looking into an open fireplace where the flames and smoke have formed into the big smiling face of Santa Claus.

PLANS FOR THE BIG THANKSGIVING GAME

The trouble which temporarily threatened the Middlesboro-Pineville Thanksgiving football game has been entirely cleared away through the action of the superintendents of the two schools last night and it is pleasing to all Middlesboro and Pineville people to know that the game will be played Thursday in the spirit of good sportsmanship. Football is the one game that has remained, to date, in the ranks of the amateurs, those who play for the love of the game, and far off be the day when professionals take it up to commercialize it as they have other games.

Our one big concern in Middlesboro now that preliminaries have been dispensed with, is to beat Pineville, so long our rivals, in this game. Pineville has a splendid team and has made a remarkable showing against the big teams it has played this year. Middlesboro has an undefeated record at football for the season, a record which they will seek to carry on through.

There is nothing that those outside the team can do in the actual playing, but there is a great deal that can be done by boosting and cheering our team on to victory. Every one in Middlesboro who is interested in the school and school athletics should be in attendance at that game next Thursday afternoon and every one there should be cheering, until he is too hoarse to talk, if necessary, for our players. There is nothing that puts spirit into football players like the feeling that all Middlesboro is depending on them, and any one who has attended a college or university game where both sides of boosters are properly organized, know that the cheering and backing from the sidelines is half of the game.

Let us have a sure enough "pep meeting" here on Wednesday night, the night before the game, to practice yells and songs and put spirit into our cheering. Let some one who is not on the team be chosen as yell leader and see how the whole town, when it turns out to the game, will back him up. We should have such spirit and pep in our cheering that Pineville can't even hear when they start to yell. And the only thing necessary for this is a proper amount of cooperation and a right amount of pep in Middlesboro to put over the big meeting Wednesday night and get a record attendance of Middlesboro fans out to the game Thursday afternoon.

SAVINGS INCREASE IN UNITED STATES

The practice of saving money, induced by war time conditions, has been continued, notwithstanding predictions that the people would soon lose interest in thrift. The per capita savings is now $158, according to a report of the American Bankers' Association, and this represents a great increase compared with the average for the pre-war period.

In 1912 the total savings of the people amounted to something over eight billion. For 1922 it was over seventeen billion. The number of savers has increased nearly 150 per cent. This represents a great gain in many ways not indicated by cold figures. Thrift on the part of the people is a great national asset. It has made France a powerful nation, able to meet the most serious exigencies, as was proved when the Franco-Prussian war debt was financed from the savings of the people.

Many Americans are prone to spend and to live on the theory of "come easy, go easy." But the trend is toward having a protective fund available to meet the hard conditions which arise when income is cut off or when extraordinary expenses must be defrayed. It is encouraging to know in this connection that the savings are going into the banks and not into hoarding. The banked savings of the pre-war took money from circulation and were unproductive. The savings banks place their funds in constructive work while paying interest to those who save.

During war hours on the installment plan taught a great many persons that they could save even though they had been under the impression that the cost of living absorbed all of their income. More people are becoming convinced that any wage earner can save something and the conviction is of much value to the individual and the nation.

FRACTIONS
By Berton Bratley

The captain walked the quarter-deck, A hazy deep-sea rover,
He loved to snuff his half and half
When he was half-asleep over.
He'd been a quarter-rater once,
But swiftly he had risen
Until the captain's quarters were Indubitably his.
At school he was a quarter back,
Kneeling to beat a sailor,
His father wanted him to be
A landsman and a sailor;
The boy remarked, "In that career
I'd fight for joy at all;
A sailor is one-half a man,
A fraction much too small."
And so he walked the quarter-deck
And walked across the foam,
While thinking of his better half
Who waited him at home.
But still he kept a half-an-eye
Upon his half-bred crew,
And noted from which quarter came
The wind that blew and blew.
A half new-galvanized in the sky,
The captain's thoughts were stirred
To dwell upon his new-born son
Why was it, chanced, his third—
I might go on for half a year
About this captain's actions,
But I can't show his whole career,
For I've run out of fractions.

Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton

A Last Visit

"Goodie, Mister Will of the Wisp! We're leaving this land and we thought we'd come this way."
It was the Twins calling to the mysterious little water fairy of the loon.

"Why, yes, now! It's dreadfully late for children to be out," came Will of the Wisp's voice, and at the same time a dim light appeared on over the pond. And then Will himself appeared, padding his bare feet toward shore where the children were waiting.

"When we're on an errand for the Fairy Queen it is never late," said Nancy. "We have our magic shoes, and that makes us different from other boys and girls."

"If these may please to take to the Fairy Queen," asked Nick. "Shall I take them?"

"Yes, yes, I suppose she will," nodded Will of the Wisp. "I'm glad you stopped. I had a great time thinking about you and hoping you'd come along. Something must have happened to Ringtail Coon. He hasn't been around here in these parts for a week. Poke Nose Pickers says he hasn't seen him, and neither has Sally Salamander, nor Sammy Sunfish, nor anybody. I haven't much use for Ringtail Coon myself as he leads me such a life, always snooping around after some of my water folk, but really I'm worried."
"It isn't very late yet," offered

You know, Christmas takes a lot of preparation. Buy your holly now so it will be a month old then.

Let your whiskers grow. Rub a little hair tonic on them daily. They will cover up Christmas neckties.

You will get some handkerchiefs for Christmas. Now is the time to catch cold so you can use them.

Get to work on your indigestion. Have a doctor look over and patch it up for the coming holidays.

Don't throw away your old gloves now. They are good for a few more miles. You may get new ones Christmas.

And socks—how about your socks? Tell everybody what size you wear so Santa Claus will bring you some.

Do your getting ped early and avoid the rush. Squabble now to avoid giving her a Christmas present.

Who will send you Christmas cards? That's the question. You had better send out about a million.

Who gave you unexpected presents last Christmas? You can get even. Give them presents this year.

How about your enemies? Give them Christmas presents such as folding beds, saxophones and prunes.

As Christmas presents for government employees we suggest hammocks, easy chairs and lounges.

Nick. "Nancy and I can go and hunt for him, if you'd like."

"That's mighty kind of you," said Will of the Wisp gratefully. "I'd go myself, but I cannot leave the water. Yes, I wish you would look him up for me."

Off went the Twins. It was getting almost too dark to see, but they knew where Ringtail lived in a great bottom-bail tree, and thither they went and rang the door bell.

They rang six times before anyone answered, but finally a head in night cap, stuck itself out of an upstairs window and asked sleepily what was wanted.

"Are you all right, Ringtail?" asked Nick. "Will of the Wisp wants to know. He says he hasn't seen you lately."

"Way, yes, I'm fine," answered Ringtail, yawning. "But that this time of year I have to be careful of Mister Coon Dog. He snoops around until he makes me nervous. After a week or so he'll get tired and go home and I can come down again, but in the meantime I find sleep most healthful. Tell Will of the Wisp not to worry."

"Well, I'm glad of that," exclaimed the little fairy when he heard it. "We often find that the things that worry us most are the things we miss the greatest when they are gone."
"Goodie," called the Twins.
"Goodie," came Will of the Wisp's voice in the distance.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT, CARE OF THE SECRET DRAWER

I am so glad, little Marquise, that I have taken your implied advice, particularly in writing to you all my discontent and sorrows, when I have any.

I believe that this is one of the reasons why two people who are married are often so unhappy. Say what you will, everyone has to get his anger, his grief, his jealousy and annoyance out of his system some way. Generally we pour it out to the one who is nearest us and the husband or wife is the scapegoat. It is very human to grow tired of being annoyed and unhappy. So the quarrels begin.

Every wife had a little secret drawer, like yours and mine, it might solve many of the problems of her married life. Almost always when a woman speaks angry, contemptuous or cutting words to her husband, she is sorry for it, however much they are deserved, and of course doubly sorry if she finds that it is all a mistake.

I am not quite sure—oh, why do I say that?—I'm almost sure, in my heart I must confess I am really sure, that I have a right to be very unhappy. So unhappy and miserable that I do not know where to begin. Perhaps as good a place as any to start is with Ruth's return from New York.

She had been home three days before she came to see me. I thought this rather strange, although I knew she was very busy and, if I had not gotten Jack to telephone that I was not able to get out of the house, I really would have gone to see her and thought nothing about it.

My cold had developed into a bad case of tonsillitis just before she returned, but I was much better the day Jack phoned. Ruth sent all sorts of lovely messages to me, but she did not come to see me, that night as I had expected. In the meantime Mrs. Smithson called again and I made the mistake of seeing her.

I was not feeling well in my mind as I had not received the promised letter from Alice about the pearls and I grew hot and cold every time I thought of what I had done in selling three of them. In some way it seemed to me that I was a thief, for unless Alice knew absolutely that the pearls were real and she had gotten them in a perfectly legitimate way, I knew that I had no right to claim them.

I think it was because I was worrying about this and the fact that Jack had telephoned me he would not be home to dinner, that I welcomed Mrs. Smithson as a stopgap between my misgivings and my loneliness. I shall not even let old Nannie bring the baby in for fear I would infect him with my throat trouble. This had made me lonely and very unhappy. I felt so lonely without the sight of his little

Make people happy this Christmas. Break up your old photograph records to make neighbors happy.

Do you know a carpenter? Punch a hole in your roof and let him fix it. Make him happy for Christmas.

A Christmas present would cheer the street car conductor. His life is dull since longer skirts.

Give the policeman Christmas presents. Make friends of them. They may help you in a pinch.

The laundry folks need Christmas presents. Sew a million buttons on a shirt for them to tear off.

How about the pressing shop? They need Christmas presents. Give them an old suit to burn as they please.

Buy the bank clerk a Christmas present. Get him some stage money. He can count it without worrying.

Don't forget the plumber. Give him a nice sink all his own so he can sleep under it at home.

A thousand dollars makes a fine gift, but is rather expensive.

Would you like a Christmas present? We suggest a nice box of dynamite labeled "Candy."

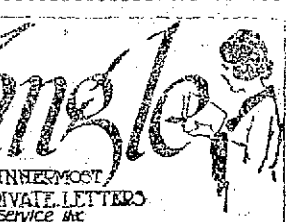

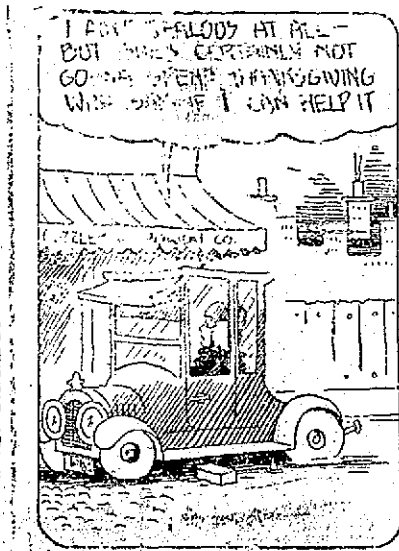

Give the boss a Christmas present. Then tell him you must have a raise so you can pay for it.

How about the stenographers? They need Christmas presents. Buy each nine boxes of chewing gum.

Have you finished paying for the Christmas presents you bought last year?

The time has come to shop early and avoid avoiding the shoppers.

MARKETS READY FOR THANKSGIVING

Grocery Stores Stocked With Choice
Foods—Turkey Plentiful Cheaper
Than Last Year

Thanksgiving Day which comes one week from today will find local markets brimming with a delectable array of choice foods suitable for the holiday dinner. Many of the local groceries have these special foods already in stock; others have placed orders for these and will have them in time for the holiday trade.

Turkey, the grand bird which forms the central delicacy of the Thanksgiving table, will be even cheaper in price than last year. The market has been unstable recently but present indications are that the Thanksgiving turkey may be bought for about thirty-five cents per pound. Reports from the surrounding country indicate there is a fairly large stock of these available for market purposes. Practically all the local grocers will have these for their patrons, though orders should be placed as soon as possible as the grocer does not want to purchase more than he can dispose of.

Oysters, another article of food which usually has a place on the Thanksgiving menu, are scarce this year according to local retailers. The price ranges from seventy-five cents to one dollar per quart, this depending upon the quality.

Those who do not think the family budget will stand a turkey for Thanksgiving will doubtless buy a chicken. Poultry are selling at about thirty-five cents per pound while the full-grown fowls are about five cents cheaper.

Local markets are loaded with such other Thanksgiving dainties as cranberries, celery, lettuce etc. Their price remains about the same.

A THANKSGIVING ROSARY (By Edwin Markham)

I count up in this song of cheer
The blessings of a busy year;
A roof so low I lose no strain
No ripple of the friendly rain;
A chimney where all winter long

The logs give back the wild bird's song,
A field—a neighborly old ground—
Which year by year without a sound
Lifts bread to me and roses sweet
From out the dark below my feet.

The tree that first to cheer
With crinkling fute the green of the year;

The cricket on the garden mound,
Stitching the dark with threads of sound;
The shy paths darting through the wheat.

Marked by the prints of little feet—
Gray squirrels on their thrifty round,
Crows condescending to the ground.

And for the first young wind of morn
That dances on the startled corn:
And for the other wind that blows
Green ripples down the apple rows:
That leafy hollow that was stirred
A hundred mornings by a bird
That sang at daybreak on a brier
Setting the gray of dawn afire!
The lone star and the shadowed hush
That comes at evening when the thrush
Turns with his wild heart all the long
Soft twilight to a secret song.

NONE BUT HARVEST PRODUCTS FOR TRUE THANKSGIVING FEAST

To have genuine New England dinner here are recipes for interested housewives.

It is all very well for the modern hostess to serve, if she so wishes, grape fruit, peas in puffy shells, asparagus, mushrooms or other daintily prepared canned vegetables or shipped fruits on her Thanksgiving menu, but she must not call it a real Thanksgiving dinner.

In New England, where history assures us Thanksgiving originated, no housewife dreamed of using for the occasion any vegetable or fruit out of season. And many housewives still living there take pride in serving, this one day each year, as nearly as possible the feast their grandmothers, great, and great grand mothers, so efficiently prepared.

Anything served with the turkey of tradition other than turnips, potatoes, squash, pumpkin or onion, the true harvest vegetables, would still, however, it seems, many a modern New Englander.

Here is a typical menu:

Cream of Oyster Soup
Celery Crackers Olives
Roast Turkey
Dressing Cranberry Jelly Giblet Gravy
Mashed Potatoes
Baked Hubbard Squash
Hot Rolls Salad
Choice of Pumpkin Pie, Thanksgiving
Pudding Vanilla Ice Cream Macaroons Coffee

Here is the pudding formula:

Thanksgiving Plum Pudding

Fill a pudding pot, which holds about four quarts, two-thirds full of bread crumbs and milk. Let stand over night. Add five eggs beaten light, one teaspoon cinnamon, one half teaspoon nutmeg, salt, one half cup of brown sugar, one half cup molasses, one pound seeded raisins, one half pound citron, one half pound candy cherries. Steam eight hours and dry off in oven. Serve warm with hard sauce. This recipe serves twenty-five guests.

Other recipes follow:

Cream of Oyster Soup

1 quart of oysters, 4 cups milk, 2 stalks celery, sprig of parsley, 1-3 cup butter, 1-3 cup flour, salt and pepper. Clean and pick over oysters as for oyster stew. Reserve liquor, add oysters, heat to boiling point and let simmer 20 minutes, strain, reheat liquor and thicken with butter and flour cooked together. Scald milk with celery and parsley; remove seasonings and add to oyster liquor. Season with salt and pepper.

Pumpkin Pie Filling

1 cup pumpkin, 2 cups milk, 1 cup sugar, 3 eggs, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-2 teaspoon ginger, pinch of clove, 1-4 teaspoon nutmeg, pinch of salt. Sift pumpkin while hot and add 1 tablespoon butter. Mix sugar and spices, and add to pumpkin. Add beaten eggs and lastly the milk heated.
